

Benefits of Attending

Career opportunities: This course is strategic in nature, preparing HR professionals for career transition-ing and advancement opportunities. The course features open, interactive forums and real-world application exercises to effectively reinforce the key concepts of each session.

“The certification prep class was instrumental in preparing me for the Professional in Human Resources certification exam. The Human Resources Certification Institute study materials and the support of the Society for Human Resource Management instructors were key components to my success on the exam.”

Lisa K. Bachar, PHR
Human Resource Coordinator
Hiscock and Barclay, LLP

Practitioner focused and competency based: The curriculum is designed and facilitated by subject matter experts and includes application exercises that develop specific competencies and strategic decision-making skills.

“I could not have passed the exam without this course. It was extremely valuable to have someone there to immediately answer questions and to clarify the material, especially since there was so much to cover.”

Marion A. Jordan, PHR
Director of Human Resources
Omega QSE Inc.

Action-oriented curriculum: The course provides opportunities for HR professionals to network, share real-world experiences and apply what they have learned to the workplace.

Le Moyne College

and the Central New York Chapter of the Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM) are pleased to offer a 13-week professional development program using the study materials from the SHRM Learning System.

This program, offered during the fall and spring each year, prepares participants for the Human Resource Certification Institute (HRCI) national examination for the Professional in Human Resources (PHR) or Senior Professional in Human Resources (SPHR) accreditation.

Course content reflects the general body of knowledge tested by the Human Resource Certification Institute. This course of study will in no way guarantee or ensure success on the HRCI exam. Participants are responsible for verifying their eligibility for certification with HRCI. Students must use the most recent edition of the SHRM Learning System for this course.

The not-for-college-credit program is also designed for those seeking continuous professional development and a broad overview of the human resources field. Upon successful completion of the program, participants receive recognition from Le Moyne College and SHRM National.

Who should attend?

- human resource practitioners and consultants
- employee benefits directors
- labor relations managers
- placement and recruitment specialists
- training professionals
- senior managers new to the human resource field
- professionals desiring an intense review course in preparation for the HRCI exam

"My background in human resources is primarily administrative and clerical, so most of what I learned through the preparation for the exam was new. The instructors were critical to my success in passing the exam just five days after our last class. They were well prepared, made the material easy to understand, and were sincerely interested in my success. I could not have done it without this course. I highly recommend investing in yourself by participating in the Le Moyne certification prep class."
