

Accountability for the Dolphins Declaration

The health and safety of the Le Moyne College community requires a shared and steadfast commitment to modify the ways in members of the community live, learn, and work on and off campus during the COVID-19 pandemic. The College has implemented significant measures designed to reduce risks to the community, such as providing for social distancing, testing, contact tracing and personal protective equipment, as well as reconfiguring spaces and providing medical resources, and has established the Dolphins Declaration to set forth behavioral expectations for students in connection with the implementation of these and other measures.

Failure to scrupulously adhere to the expectations of the Dolphins Declaration poses potentially severe public health effects and makes it more likely that students will not be able to stay on campus for the duration of the spring 2021 semester and return for the following semester. Accordingly, those who do not adhere to these expectations may face consequences as described below.

Protective Measures

In the event of a student's or organization's suspected violation of the Dolphins Declaration, the College's Assistant Dean for Student Development or their designee may review the matter. If the Assistant Dean for Student Development (or designee) concludes that the student or organization has violated the Dolphins Declaration, the Assistant Dean for Student Development may warn the student or organization to refrain from further violative conduct, provide for notice to be given to parents or guardians, and/or impose consequences in the interest of protecting community health, including but not limited to (as applicable):

- (a) loss of specified campus privileges;
- (b) housing reassignment;*
- (c) loss of the privilege to live in College housing;* or
- (d) loss of permission to be on campus.*+
- (e) monetary fines

* In the event a student is reassigned to different housing, loses the privilege to reside in College housing, or loses permission to be on campus, the student will not be entitled to a reduction or refund of housing or meal plan costs.

+ Loss of permission to be on campus may impact a student's ability to complete certain courses or cocurricular activities, and to access certain campus resources; in such event the student will not be entitled to a reduction or refund of tuition or student fees.

These measures, if implemented, are not disciplinary sanctions, will not appear on the student's or organization's disciplinary record, and are in addition to (and not in lieu of) potential disciplinary consequences or consequences permitted under a student's housing contract with the College. A student or organization who loses significant campus privileges or is removed from College housing, reassigned, or prohibited from presence on campus may request reconsideration of these protective measures by submitting a request for reconsideration in writing to the Interim Associate Provost for Student Development within five days after receiving notice of imposition of the protective measures. The measures will remain in effect pending the review. The Interim Associate Provost for Student Development decision on review is final and not subject to further appeal.

Disciplinary Consequences

In circumstances involving intentional or significant alleged violations of the Dolphins Declaration, the Assistant Dean for Student Development may, in addition to or in lieu of imposing consequences as described above, may address the matter through the Student Conduct process.
